E10.6.R1. Students will be able to identify the advice, rules and regulations in a text.

In many places, there are rules that we must follow for everyone's safety and comfort. At school, we must listen to the teacher and do our homework. If we don't, we can not learn what we need and may get bad grades. In traffic, drivers must follow the traffic lights and signs. If a driver doesn't stop at a red light, it can cause accidents. In the library, we must be quiet. Noise disturbs others who are trying to read or study. At a sports match, fans must respect the players and other fans. If they don't, it can cause fights and spoil the fun for all. Finally, at work, we must complete our tasks and respect our coworkers. If we don't, we can not do our job well. So we may even lose our job. Following rules in all these places helps everything go smoothly and keeps everyone safe and happy.

Dear Debbie,
I have a problem with being late to school often. My house is far, and I have to take the bus, which sometimes comes late. I try to wake up early, but I'm not a morning person, and it's hard for me. My teacher gets upset when I arrive late, and I feel bad about it. I need to fix this but still get enough sleep. Can you give me some advice on what to do?
Tom

Dear Tom, (Example of a possible answer)
I understand you. Here's a bit of advice that might help you. First, try to prepare everything you need for school the night before. Second, you could aim to catch an earlier bus. Lastly, make sure you're going to bed early enough to get the rest you need. Give these tips a try, and I'm sure you'll see improvement.
Best wishes,
Debbie
