3. Answer the questions according to the paragraph given below ( 26p)

Hello, my name is Anakin. I live near the central park in my neighborhood. There is a theatre across from the park where you can watch plays and musicals. Next to the theatre, there is a library where many people from here go to study and read. There is also a small café by the library where students and teachers often meet for a snack and to chat. Several restaurants are located near the river, just a five-minute walk from the park. The park itself is big and right next to the river. You can play or relax there. If you come to our city, you should visit these places.

4. Write the key characteristics of the three cities listed in the chart according to the text (12x2=24p)

Welcome to my travel journey where I explore some of the world's most iconic cities! Today, I want to talk about three fascinating cities: Istanbul, Rome, and Tokyo. Istanbul, a bustling metropolis in Turkey, is home to over 15 million people. You can visit historic places like Hagia Sophia and the Grand Bazaar there. The weather in Istanbul is mild, with an average temperature of about 14 degrees Celsius. Rome, located in Italy, has about 2.8 million residents. It is famous for its historic landmarks such as the Colosseum. Rome enjoys a slightly warmer climate, with an average temperature of 16 degrees Celsius. Tokyo, a vast and vibrant city in Japan, also has more than 14 million inhabitants. It features modern skyscrapers and historic temples like Senso-ji. Tokyo's climate is similar to Rome's at 16 degrees Celsius on average, but it feels different because it is more humid. Each city offers unique sights and experiences.
