1- Read the story and find out the elements in the table below. (5x5=25) E11.3.R1. Students will be able to answer the questions about a text on people's habits and experiences in the past.

In a magical place called Eldoria, there was this cool forest with talking trees and stuff. So, there were three pals—Lira, an elf who's great with a bow, Eldon, a smart wizard, and Thrain, a dwarf who loves telling stories. One day, they got this mysterious map promising awesome treasures in the Whispering Woods. As they went deeper, the air got all weird, and the trees seemed to have secrets. The big moment happened when they found the Grove of Mirrors. It was like a crazy place with illusions messing with their heads. But, in the end, they figured out the real treasure was the journey itself and the cool friendship they built. They left the forest with lots of cool memories and a bag full of stories.

Students will be able to answer the questions about a text on people's habits and experiences in the past.

Meet Emily, an individual who used to have distinct habits that colored her past. She used to be a devoted bookworm, losing herself in the enchanting realms of her favorite novels for hours on end. Weekends were once dedicated to artistic pursuits, and she used to enjoy transforming blank canvases into vibrant expressions of her creativity through painting. Evenings were a time for leisurely strolls, a routine she was accustomed to, where she'd greet neighbors and savor the simplicity of the outdoors. Over time, her daily painting sessions and unhurried walks evolved into occasional activities, giving way to the demands of a busier career. While she used to find solace in the pages of books, her routine now often includes a quick jog to accommodate a more hectic schedule. Despite these shifts, her past habits are like familiar landmarks, offering glimpses into the chapters of Emily's evolving life.

Dr. Sarah Rodriguez, a distinguished scientist, was born on October 15, 1975, in San Francisco, California. Known for her groundbreaking work in the field of molecular biology, Sarah earned her Ph.D. from MIT in 2002. She has since dedicated her career to unraveling the intricacies of genetic coding and cellular processes. Her early research on genome editing techniques earned her the prestigious Nobel Prize in Chemistry in 2010, solidifying her position as a trailblazer in the scientific community. Dr. Rodriguez's commitment to advancing scientific knowledge is reflected in her numerous publications. Notable among them is her seminal work, "Genomic Frontiers: Decoding the Language of Life," a comprehensive exploration of the latest breakthroughs in genomics. This acclaimed book has become a cornerstone for students and researchers alike, offering profound insights into the rapidly evolving field.

In addition to her Nobel Prize, Dr. Rodriguez has received several accolades, including the Breakthrough Scientist Award (2007) and the Medal of Honor for Scientific Achievement (2015). Beyond her scientific achievements, Sarah is an advocate for STEM education, working to inspire the next generation of scientists through lectures, workshops, and mentorship programs.
